SANCTIONS ON GUESTS

In this letter, the view is expressed that the action of the Quartering Authority in assessing hotel rates without prior consultation with the hotels and boarding houses was arbitrary, wrong in principle and without precedent in price control matters.

It was also decided that the Chinese Representatives on the Legislative Council should be approached to intercede in the matter.

Interviewed regarding the statement by Mr. F. C. Barry, Managing Director of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels Limited which appeared in yesterday's "China Mail," Mr. P. F. J. Eardley, Quartering Authority, said "I have no statement to make."

MOKANSHAN MEASURES PROMULGATED SOON?

Shanghai, August 2.

The new sweeping economic measures reported to have been approved by President Chiang Kai-shek at the recent Mokanshan conference will probably be officially promulgated this week, according to Chinese press reports.

These are said to be entirely different from all similar measures enforced in the past, in that they lay emphasis on action rather than regulation.
It is reported that Shanghai, as the country's financial and economic centre, has been designated as "guinea pig" for the new drive to stabilise the nation's economy.

On the basis of Chinese reports it is believed that the new economic policy includes important revisions to existing exchange and trade controls, a higher control of the operations of banks and other financial institutions, and a tightening-up of the money market.

Meanwhile, in co-ordination with the revolutionary activities, the authorities will take steps to wipe out racketeering and profiteering.
For this purpose a new organisation, the "National Economic Control Bureau," will be established by the Government with headquarters in Shanghai, headed either by the Governor of the Central Bank, Dr. O. K. Yui, or General Chiang Ching-kuo, son of President Chiang.—Reuter.

Racial Fights In Liverpool

London, August 2.

Police with batons broke up fights between white and coloured men in Liverpool last night. Several persons were injured and sent to hospital, while several arrests were made.

The fight broke out shortly before midnight when a gang seized a Negro from the Colonial Office hotel steps and started to beat him. His cries brought other Negroes from the building, and a battle began in which knives were drawn and bottles and bricks thrown until almost every window of the three storey building was shattered.

Police dashed up to the scene and dispersed the fighters. This morning, police cars continued their patrol of the area.

On Saturday night, an Anglo-Indian cafe, frequented by coloured men, in nearby St. James Street, was wrecked by a crowd of white men in a fight.
Eight people were reported to have been treated for injuries, including one policeman.—Reuter.

Polish Note To Britain

London, August 1.

Warsaw Radio tonight broadcast the text of a Polish note handed yesterday to Mr. Ernest Bevin, the Foreign Secretary reiterating the protests against the failure to invite Poland to participate in the London talks on Germany.

The note said: "The original Anglo-Polish treaty provided for a joint participation of the two countries in all decisions connected with a peace treaty with Germany."

The London talks dealt with

Big Notes Flown Into Canton

Canton, August 1.

One hundred cases of China's new big denomination notes were flown into Canton during the past week,
it is reliably reported here.

The value of these notes is unofficially estimated at some CN$2,000,000 million.
Of this sum CN$280,000
million worth is understood to have been almost immediately issued.

Of the 100 cases of notes received, 60 were made up of 2,500 Customs Gold Unit notes (one GU$25,000 is worth CN$500,000)—the biggest denomination now in circulation here.

The issue of the new notes broke the week-old stability of the money market and caused the Hong Kong dollar to rise slowly from CN$770-000 to close to the previous million mark.

The Central Bank of China has in the past few days taken in some CN$100,000
million in small notes in exchange for big denominations.
It is reported. The Bank has established special collecting booths for the taking in of CN$10,000 bills each of which could probably buy three pennies if vendors would accept it.—Reuter.

UN Home's Future Uncertain

Washington, August 1.

Administration leaders in Congress are still hopeful that the proposed $65,000,000 loan for the construction of a permanent United Nations Headquarters will be approved during the special session, but final decision on the action will probably not be made until next week.

Informed sources declared that Chairman Charles Eaton of the House Foreign Committee is still insisting upon approving the loan only as part of his single-package United Nations bill, which was approved by his committee during the regular session.
That bill also includes provisions for strengthening the operation of the United Nations along the lines of the Vandenberg resolution.—United Press.

much more than administrative measures since they established the foundation for the future of Germany. The note added that Poland stands for the "building up of Germany as one entity" its democratisation and demilitarisation.—Reuter.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DO YOU KNOW THIS GAG?

ONE OF the simplest, and yet slickest, gags used by keen declarers to bring in a long suit of the dummy consists of an apparently innocent first round, followed by the overtaking of an honour on the second. Not too many players, outside those in the upper strata, are familiar enough with the play to recognize the situations in which it should be tried. And only the bravest fraction of those are engaged enough to note when it is being employed against them, so they are self-warned to use the only defence that can thwart it.

DEATH

MOK—Mary Sul-Tung, beloved wife of Mok Koon Sang, J.P., passed away on 1st August, 1948. Prayers will be said at 41A, Conduit Road at 2 p.m. on 3rd August, 1948, after which the cortege will proceed immediately for the Chinese Permanent Cemetery (Aberdeen) for the Burial Service at about 3 p.m.

AIR SENSE

State-owned airlines have been losing £10,000,000 a year, and for 1948-49 it is expected that the three corporations will find it difficult to keep their losses within the £8,000,000 subsidy allowed.

Sensitive defenders of nationalisation complain that discussion of these figures masks a flimsy gloating over the failure of public enterprise. What nonsense! We are concerned here with two things only—what went wrong, and how can it be put right?

Certainly, nationalisation, with its paraphernalia of bureaucracy, did not help the air industry to get off to a flying start after the war, but the greatest handicap under which the three corporations worked was the necessity to use obsolescent stop-gap aircraft until the Tudor IIs came into service in 1946.

Now the Tudor II has had to be scrapped. No matter where the responsibility lies, it is a sorry story. Part of the doomed air fleet will be used for freight work; the threat of unemployment for skilled aircraft workers may thus be minimised.

Nothing, however, can make up for the disappointment these men must feel when, largely due to official muddles, their handiwork is turned down.

But the decision, however unpopular, has been taken. Now at last the airline operators know where they stand. They can start to plan ahead, knowing clearly what aircraft they will be getting during the next few years.

Even the Americans, using the most efficient airliners in the world, lost £5,000,000 last year on their domestic routes: the British, with stop-gap equipment, have been facing intense and growing competition on major trunk routes. The Canadian deal is intended to bridge the gap until new British aircraft come along.

Here we can learn lessons for the future. The system of ordering aircraft and developing them to the stage when they can safely and profitably go into service must be overhauled.

The Treasury and the Ministries of Civil Aviation and Supply have in the past interposed between the maker and the operator. The same mistakes must not be allowed to recur when it comes to ordering and developing our aircraft of the future—Hermes, Comets, Ambassadors, Saunders-Roe's, and Brabazons.

Corporations and manufacturers must be allowed—and, if necessary, compelled—to work harmoniously together: the role of the Government official should be confined to acting as a benevolent referee. But, once the main decisions have been taken, the experts should be given a free hand.

Though they now carry much dead wood, the corporations contain some first-

CONCILIATION IN PALESTINE

By W.N. EWER

The truce accepted by both sides in Palestine on order of the United Nations' Security Council is as yet no more than a lull in the fighting. It is uneasy and unstable.

Both parties insist that it cannot last indefinitely; that if there is no settlement there must be renewed war until the issue is decided. The Arab Governments only accepted under intense pressure and because they would not flout the Council's authority.

They accuse the Jews of having—in violation of its conditions—brought in munitions and fighting men during the earlier truce. And certainly Israeli forces, when fighting was resumed, had larger bombers and heavier artillery than before.

There will be restlessness and pressure on both sides for denunciation of the truce. There may well be violations of it. The Israeli authorities have little or no control over Irgun Zvai Leumi or over the Stern Gang; nor is there absolute discipline in Arab ranks.

The position is unstable. And yet the chances of settlement by consent (though not by agreement) are better than they have been. For enforcement of the truce upon the reluctant Arab States implies that the Council (or a sufficient majority of it) is in fact prepared to enforce a solution upon them, and that this solution will include the establishment of a Jewish State in Palestine. The Arabs have in effect been told that they will not be allowed even to attempt to overthrow the "Republic of Israel" by force. That institution has to all intents and purposes been taken under the protection of the Council. Not merely its existence but even its immunity from any threat of attack are patently guaranteed.

Decided

The issue is decided. And the Arabs know it. That is the reason for their reluctance and bitterness of their acceptance. They knew that they were in fact being called upon to accept not merely a truce but partition and the creation of a Jewish State: that this would be the end of their long struggle for the "unity and independence of Palestine"; and that there could be no going back.

Partition is decided and will be enforced upon the Arabs. And they will submit to force but with the conviction that they are the victims of a great injustice, and that verdict has been given, not on considerations of equity or Palestinian welfare, but because of remote and irrelevant political factors.

That settles the old, only to raise a new, Palestine problem. An imposed peace, improvised frontiers, a disrupted economy, displaced populations and bitter enmities between the two communities, give little hope for the future.

There is no real solution without some measure of reconciliation. To think of such a possibility before even a truce is fully practised may seem absurd. Yet it is fundamental. And it is from this moment that all effort should be directed to reconciliation.

Now for that the major responsibility must rest with the Jews: for the simple reason that they are the victors. It is the victor who can and needs to be generous if there is to be real peace.

Other than the bitterness of defeat, the chief source of Arab bitterness at the moment is the fate of the 250,000 Arabs who have been driven or have fled through fear from Israeli territory. Their sufferings have been acute, though they have had small sympathy. Like all "displaced persons" they are a heavy economic liability.

FEEDING OLYMPIC ATHLETES

Says JOHN BRETTON

When London shipping was recently analysed by the dock strike, there was perhaps no unhappier man in Britain than dapper Mr. Ley On, official caterer to the Chinese Olympic team.

For lying deep in the holds of one of the held-up ships were jars of birds' nests; packets of shrimp fins and supplies of dried shrimps and oiled bamboo shoots. If the strike had not ended when it did, it might well have meant chaos for the Chinese team, for the food in that ship will be vital to the athletes' well-being.

Napoleon is said to have remarked that an army marches on its stomach. This saying might well be applied to the "army" of athletes who are now congregating in London for the Olympic Games, due to begin on Thursday, July 29.

Seven thousand competitors, representing sixty-one different nations ranging from Portugal to Porto Rico, Belgium to British Guiana, are taking part.

Packets and parcels and boxes containing their own special delicacies have been arriving in Britain for weeks.

Thirty pounds of poppy seeds and 1,500 bottles of wines, for instance, form part of the Hungarian shipment.

Egypt is sending for its 115 competitors 3½ tons of food which includes large quantities of rice, "foul" (a kind of bean, pronounced "fool"), a sweetmeat called "Halawa" and a dried apricot called "Amradin."

Turkey, among its foods, is sending 10lb. of garlic, 110lb. of olive oil and 150lb. of olives, and South Africa 14lb. of jungle ants, while among the Americans' supplies are 5,000 sirloin steaks, 2,500lb. of ham, 2,000lb. of sliced bacon, 2,000 gallons of ice cream and 24,000 dozen eggs.

In addition, 9,000 slices of fresh bread will be flown from the States to Britain every 48 hours.

The Cingalese supply list makes rather strange reading. It includes three bottles of Eau de Cologne, as well as 14lb. of curry and two packets of quinine.

But of course the main food supplies come from Britain. The Ministry of Food, mindful of the fact that a single athlete spends at least as much energy as a farmer or a foundry worker, is allowing the competitors Category "A" industrial workers' rations.

In charge of all the catering arrangements is 37-year-old Stanley Briault, an ex-R.A.F. catering officer. For months now he has worked hard to see that all the athletes will get their necessary foods.

After closely studying the requirements of each country he has found, he says modestly, that the fundamental foods are generally really the same.

It is the way they are cooked that makes all the difference. The Eastern Europeans, for instance, like their foods fatty; the Indians spicy; the Chinese oily, and so on.

As may well be imagined, Mr. Briault has had many problems to face. One of the first concerned the Turkish wrestlers.

One day he received a letter from the Olympic authorities out there stating that the men would require TEN EGGS EACH PER DAY.

It took a good deal of diplomatic talking to explain that the best we would be able to do would be to supply ONE EGG EACH PER WEEK.

The Turks have decided to bring their own supplies.

and jobs would have a good effect. Just as any suggestion that their exile will make room for more Jewish immigrants would be disastrous.

Immigration, indeed, is still the crux of all the question, the real basis of Arab fears. They have seen first Jewish settlements, then a "National Home," now a Jewish State in a land which only 30 years ago was (though under Turkish rule) unquestionably Arab.

If they could be assured that this settlement (whatever it may be) will really set final limits to the Jewish invasion, then the Arabs would, I think, gradually accept it, and become used to it. What they fear is that the "Republic of Israel" is only a bridgehead: that Jewish claims to all Palestine, to Transjordan, perhaps even beyond, will be only temporary and will be revived when an increasing population in Israel wants new lebensraum.

The root of it all is that the Arabs are afraid. And it is only the wisest and most imaginative statesmanship on the part of Israeli leaders that can allay that fear. They are coming to that supreme test which always comes with victory.

TRUMAN MOVE SHOCKS OPPONENTS

At poker President Truman is a blunder. Now, in the most audacious gamble of his career, he hopes to pull off a coup worth at least a million dollars and a four-year lease on the White House.

In a Presidential election it is customary for each candidate to tour the country by special train. America is so vast that if Mr. Churchill or Mr. Attlee had to travel and campaign on a similar scale they would be making speeches as far away from home as Madrid, Athens, Astrakhan and Moscow.

Such a Presidential trip costs a million dollars. On top of that astronomical sum, he goes to buy speech-time on the radio.

But by calling Congress back into special session, President Truman, without spending a cent of the party funds, has provided himself with a nationwide platform. From it he aims to win more votes next November than any amount of expensive marathon stump oratory or bought radio time could bring him.

Already, newspapers and radio stations have given enormous free publicity to his attitude and unprecedented challenge to the Republicans in which he said in effect: "In the two years you've controlled Congress you have ignored my pleas to check soaring prices, provide cheap public housing, extend social security, and safeguard negro rights."

"Six weeks ago in your Convention at Philadelphia you approved an election platform promising action on these matters next year if you are elected. If you mean what you say, prove it now by passing these laws before the election."

Hocus Pocus

"If you refuse, the voters will know in advance that your promises are more hocus pocus."

There is as much fright as anger in the screams and trumpeting of the Republican elephant as "Battling Harry Truman", having applied the half-nelson, strains for the victory throw in this championship bout for the highest stakes America can offer. He has fixed the attention of 90,000,000 voters on Washington for the duration of Candidates for the Presidency of the U.S. tour the country by special train. Our map, with America superimposed on Europe, gives an idea of the enormous territory that is covered.

what promises to be the most uproarious brawl ever seen in Congress.

Some of the howls of dismay that greeted the recall of Congress had nothing to do with politics. The Capitol painters had hardly got their summer recess scaffolding erected before President Truman ordered it back to the collar.

The restaurant managers had just fired all their walters. Now they must hire a new lot. The $13-a-week page boys have had to forget about their summer camps, and the 2,000 girls who serve as Congressmen's secretaries are looking tearfully at the New Look holiday frenzy that they must now put away unused.

Loudest wails of all are those of the 531 law-makers torn from beach resort to wrangle in a climate like the inside of a boiler. Scores of them had sub-let their Washington homes as usual for the rest of the year. Now they are trying to squeeze into crowded hotels.

Highest Ever

Looming as the hottest election issue is the cost of living, new within a fraction of the highest ever. Ever since the Republicans killed price controls two years ago they have predicted that increased production would lower prices.

Events have proved them woefully wrong. In spite of the highest peace-time production in America's history, prices have continued to climb.

President Truman will ask the special session to reimpose price ceilings. The Republican majority will take a big risk if they refuse.

Women voters outnumber men. Steak at five and six-pence a pound and other things that have gone beyond her purse remind the housewife daily of President Truman's efforts to help her and of those who have balked him.

Between now and November the bitter election fight of modern times will rage here. Mr. Truman faces heavy odds, but a victory is still possible.

Moscow Accusation

London, August 1.
Radio Moscow, citing the acquittal of I. G. Farben officials at Nuremberg, today accused the Western powers of abandoning the task of "demilitarising" and "democratising Germany."

The broadcast said the acquittal and the Ludwighafen explosion, occurring almost simultaneously, left no doubt that the Farben plants in Western Germany continued to operate. This, it added, was contrary to the Potsdam agreement.

The broadcast then described the Farben plants as "one of the mainstays of the Nazi war potential," and said that Germans and Americans continued to maintain cartel agreements that existed before and during the war.

It declared also that cartels were being maintained "with the American monopolies of Standard Oil, General Motors, Telephone Trust and others."—United Press.

NEW MOVE IN THE BERLIN CRISIS

Joe Stalin Expected To Meet Envoys To Discuss Issues

Western Ambassadors Rather More Hopeful

Berlin Police Cleavage

Berlin, August 1. Berliners today faced the prospect of arrest if they obeyed the orders of their own uniformed police. The latest order in the battle of the city's rival police forces, issued by a deputy of Colonel Paul Markgraf, the Soviet-sponsored chief, read:

"All possible steps, including arrest, will be taken to ensure that no person obeys any instruction that may be given by Stumm. Anyone who obeys Stumm will find himself before a law court."

Dr. Johannes Stumm, a former deputy to Colonel Markgraf, was appointed police chief by the German City Administration last week, and tomorrow he will open his own headquarters in the American sector.

Earlier today, Dr. Stumm countermanded an order by Colonel Markgraf warning Berliners against using the new headquarters and declaring that all certificates and licences issued there would be invalid.

Later in the day, the rank and file police constables had to choose between contradictory instructions issued for the police swimming championships, being held at the Berlin Olympic Stadium.

As Colonel Markgraf is now recognised by the Russians and Dr. Stumm by the Western Allies, Berliners tomorrow are expected to regulate their behaviour according to the sector they live in.

Those in the East will continue to use the old headquarters in the Soviet sector and those in the West will go to the new building. —Reuter.

PROBLEMS GET MORE DIFFICULT

Berlin, August 1. Life as it is today in Berlin after 40 days of the Soviet blockade, during which the only means of communication for the Western Powers and for the German inhabitants of the western sectors of the city with the outside world are those provided by American and British transport planes, may well last until the weather becomes cooler and the days shorter.

It is already obvious that the problems facing the western sectors are daily becoming more difficult to solve. Not so long ago, no one would have dreamed that the former German capital would be divided into four separate districts as regards power plants, gas works, waterworks, slaughter houses, and so on.

Berliners in the western zones can now use electricity only two hours in the daytime and two more hours at night—four hours out of 24. The chief problems, of course, are the food supply and the currency question.

The widely-advertised intention of the Soviet authorities to feed the entire population of Berlin—east and west—has had little effect on the Berliners in the Western zones, and reports leaking out from the Soviet zone give little ground to hope that it is possible for the eastern zone to fill the Berliners' stomachs.

Moreover the way the Soviets want to supply the western sectors would mean that a German housewife in these areas would have to make a daily journey of from six to eight miles for a ration of soup meat and fats.

Unparalleled In History

On the economical and financial side, the situation is confused to a degree probably unparalleled in modern history.

The two currencies of Berlin have the same name, the same face value and circulate in opposition to each other. Yesterday, General Lucius D. Clay, the American Commander-in-Chief, declared that the Americans were ready to put an end to such an absurdity. But, so far, the Russians have ignored all attempts to settle the monetary problem as if they are confident of winning the battle of the currency field.

They took advantage of the Western Powers' reluctance to the circulation of Eastern marks in the western zones of the city by "freezing" bank accounts in the eastern zone and causing considerable inconvenience to account holders.

Moscow, August 1. The expected meeting between Marshal Stalin and the Western diplomats may take place in the next 24 hours, possibly even tonight, according to opinion in some well informed foreign circles in Moscow.

While there is no confirmation from Soviet circles that such a meeting is expected, the atmosphere in the Embassies of the Western countries—working over the bank holiday week-end—was one of considerable expectancy.

Members of the staffs of the British, French and American embassies are staying in Moscow over the week-end. Normally they would have gone to a country house.

The Soviet Commander in Germany, Marshal Sokolovsky, is believed to be in Moscow, and it is likely that he, as well as M. Molotov, will attend any conference between Stalin and the Western powers.

At such a conference the views of the Western powers would be presented by the "little" three—Mr. Frank Roberts, personal envoy of the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Bevin, General Walter Bedell Smith, American Ambassador, and M. Chatagnier, French Ambassador.

The British, American and French representatives have kept silent since their return.

Big Four Meeting

Some well-informed observers believe they would offer an opportunity for discussion between the four powers at a high level. This could be either talks by all four Foreign Ministers, or even a big four meeting—between Stalin, President Truman, French Premier, M. Marie, and British Premier, Mr. Attlee.

There is no doubt that the envoys of the three Western powers are out to explore every avenue which could possibly lead to a settlement of outstanding difficulties in Germany.

This fits in with Mr. Bevin's statement in the Commons last week that the object of the present diplomatic steps was to "clarify the situation in order to ascertain whether there is any prospect of removing obstacles to discussions, with a view to a settlement which His Majesty's Government desires, and which we hope may lead to peace and security in Europe for all."

The fact that M. Molotov was summoned back from his holiday shows clearly the very great importance that the Soviet Government attaches to the "present diplomatic steps."

The general impression here is that Marshal Stalin, M. Molotov and other Soviet leaders want peace and would welcome the removal of obstacles to a settlement. —Reuter.

No Refusal

London, August 1. American, British and French diplomats have asked to see Marshal Stalin, a well informed diplomatic source in London said tonight.

He could not say definitely that Marshal Stalin has accepted, but indicated that he has not yet, at least, refused.

He said the requests were made when representatives of the three Western powers seeking to lay the groundwork for ending the cold war between East and West saw the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. V. M. Molotov, last night. —Associated Press.

Prepared

Washington, August 1. The State Department refused today to comment on reports here and in Moscow that representatives of the Western powers told the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Molotov, in Moscow that their governments were prepared to negotiate with the Russians on a wide range of problems if the Russians cancel the Berlin blockade.

A highly-placed source in Washington indicated that they had made oral representations and then backed these up with formal notes.

The State Department replied with a bland "no comment" when informed of press reports from Moscow that the three powers had asked for a personal conference with Premier Josef Stalin. However, observers pointed out that it would not be strange for the three powers to seek such a top-level conference because of the dangers inherent in the current Berlin crisis.

Not Optimistic

Some officials here believe the Russians will agree to four-power talks on the Berlin crisis and other major issues, but they are not optimistic about the outcome in advance of the American Presidential elections. Leaders of American bipartisan foreign policy—including President Truman and Mr. Thomas Dewey—are known to believe that Russia's stubborn policy on Berlin and other issues comes from reasoning that American unity on foreign issues will be shattered during the domestic political campaign.

It is believed that the U.S. Ambassador, Mr. Walter Bedell Smith, made a point on Saturday to clear Mr. Molotov's mind of that idea.

It was recalled that when Mr. Smith last conferred with Mr. Molotov early this summer, he told the Minister, "It would be a grave error if others were to assume that domestic considerations, such as the forthcoming election, would in any way weaken the determination of the United States to support what it believes to be right. The American people have always known how to separate domestic and foreign policy." —United Press.

NEW BERLIN AIR FIELD

Berlin, August 1. The German news agency, DPA, tonight reported that three thousand men are working to complete by September the new Soviet Schoenefeld Airfield, near Teltow, about three miles from Berlin.

Earlier, it was reported that 43 Berlin construction firms were working night and day to make Schoenefeld Airport among the most modern in Europe and that the deadline for the job was August. —Reuter.

King Cobra Poisoning

Chapra (India), August 1. It was midnight. Six armed men stealthily approached the house of the richest man in the village of Chapra, near Bihar. Their faces covered by masks, they forced open the door and scattered the inhabitants of the house in a panic.

In a corner was a big black chest. Quickly, feverishly, the thieves got to work and forced the lid inside were jewels worth a king's ransom and hundreds of thousands of pounds sterling in money.

The leader of the gang put in his hand to withdraw the loot—and quickly drew it back with a yell of pain. Slowly, hissing with anger, a giant King Cobra raised its hooded head. With a hiss of fear—to them it was a bad omen—the members of the gang fled in disorder.

Hours later, the inhabitants of the house returned and found their treasure still intact with its guardian, the King Cobra, lying on the chest. Quickly, the custodian of the treasure was despatched.

The police are now looking for a man who died of snake-bite or who is suffering from the effects of King Cobra poison. —Agence France Presse.

NO CLEAR SOLUTION EMERGES

New York, August 1.

The Western Allies last week cautiously explored the dangerous labyrinth of relations with Russia seeking a way out short of war. But the week-end came without any clear solution.

Western diplomats devoted much of the week to preparatory conferences paving the way to an approach to Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow. But when the envoys of the U.S., Britain and France arrived in Moscow to request the lifting of the Russian land blockade of Berlin, they were told that Molotov was out of town.

Nevertheless on Saturday night Molotov received the U.S. Ambassador, Mr. Walter Bedell Smith, and they talked for more than an hour.

After their interview Smith said only "I have no comment." But the fact that they had talked seemed a positive development, after the previous brusque "vacation" announcement. Molotov also received the British and French envoys separately.

At the 11 nation Danube River conference in Belgrade, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Vishinsky bluntly told the Western powers to accept the decision of the Communist-dominated meeting or get out.

"The doors was open for you to come in," declared Vishinsky "and the door is open for you to go out."

His brusque declaration was in reply to a French assertion that France could not abide by any conference decision which ignored the acquired rights of France in the Danubian waterway.

This exchange came amid fresh indications that Russia and her Eastern satellites were determined to control the administration of the great river.

Prepared To Negotiate

The U.S. Air Force and the RAF meanwhile continued to fly supplies to land-locked Berlin. In a conciliatory gesture on Saturday, however, the American commander, General Lucius D. Clay, said the Western powers were prepared to negotiate with the Russians on the currency put-up in Berlin. The Russians have said they have no excuse for blocking the city.

I. G. Farben again figured prominently in the week's news when a U.S. military court acquitted 24 directors of the Company of charges of plotting and waging aggressive war, but sentenced to prison terms 13 convicted of war crimes. Involving looting of occupied countries and exploiting slave labour. Later, Alfred Krupp von Bohlen and 10 other high officials of the Krupp Munitions Works were convicted on similar charges.

In the Far East the civil war in China pursued its grim course without outstanding developments. In Malaya, the drive against Communist insurgents continued with police and military attacks on jungle strongholds.

In Japan the labour problem, hampering for nearly three years, approached boiling point with controversy over the right of government workers to strike.

The Japanese Cabinet yesterday forbade government employees such action, but Left Wing Unions said it would take a specific order from General Douglas MacArthur to stop them. At the leader of the Communist-dominated communications workers' union said Japan is greeting a military ruler dangerous to the rest of Asia.

Indonesian Problem

At Lake Success, the United Nations tackled the Indonesian problem again after the Indonesian Republic announced it had withdrawn from the deadlocked peace talks with the Dutch. The Security Council approved a Chinese proposal calling on both sides to carry out fully and soon the principles of the Henneville truce agreement.

In Washington, a special session of the U.S. Congress got under way and President Harry Truman demanded speedy action against inflation. The Republican majority, however, seemed little disposed toward hasty action, particularly on measures specially stressed by Mr. Truman.

Excitement of another category was provided by the House of Representatives' Un-American Activities Committee. A woman, who confessed she had spied for Russia, told the Committee that one of the late President Franklin Roosevelt's aides, Laughlin Currie, gave out wartime secrets which reached Russia. Currie made several trips to China for the President. The ex-spy witness also named others in government circles from whom she said secret information was obtained. —Associated Press.

Air Lift Victims Buried

Berlin, August 1. Three thousand persons paid memorial tribute under a blistering sun today to five Americans who died in the airlift supplying Soviet-blockaded Berlin.

The heard speakers denounce the blockade as inhuman and praise the air-lift fliers as "heroes who help us resist subjugation under a new dictatorship."

But even as the Service was being held the Russians, through their official press, threatened Western Berliners with extension of the siege into the winter unless the elected City Government yields to Communist demands for economic control over the entire city.

The Russians also moved for another turning of the screw in their pressure on Western Berlin. They indicated that accounts held in banks in the Russian sector of the city by Western Berlin businesses and industries, frozen during the recent currency exchange, might never be released except at the pleasure of the Communist-ruled Economic Commission. The Socialist press called the move "a money blockade."

The memorial service, arranged by the Women's Union of Western Berlin, honoured Americans who died in two crashes of supply planes, one near Wiesbaden on July 6 and the other in Berlin a week ago. Simultaneously, the assemblage paid tribute to the several hundred German victims of last week's explosion at the I.G. Farben chemical plant at Ludwigshafen.

In the audience were Mrs. Louise Schroeder, Socialist Lord Mayor of Berlin, and Mrs. Lucius Clay, wife of the American Military Governor. —Associated Press.

Shah Of Persia In Paris

Paris, August 1. The Shah of Iran, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, was given a rousing welcome by the French capital today when he landed at Le Bourget airport after his visit to Britain.

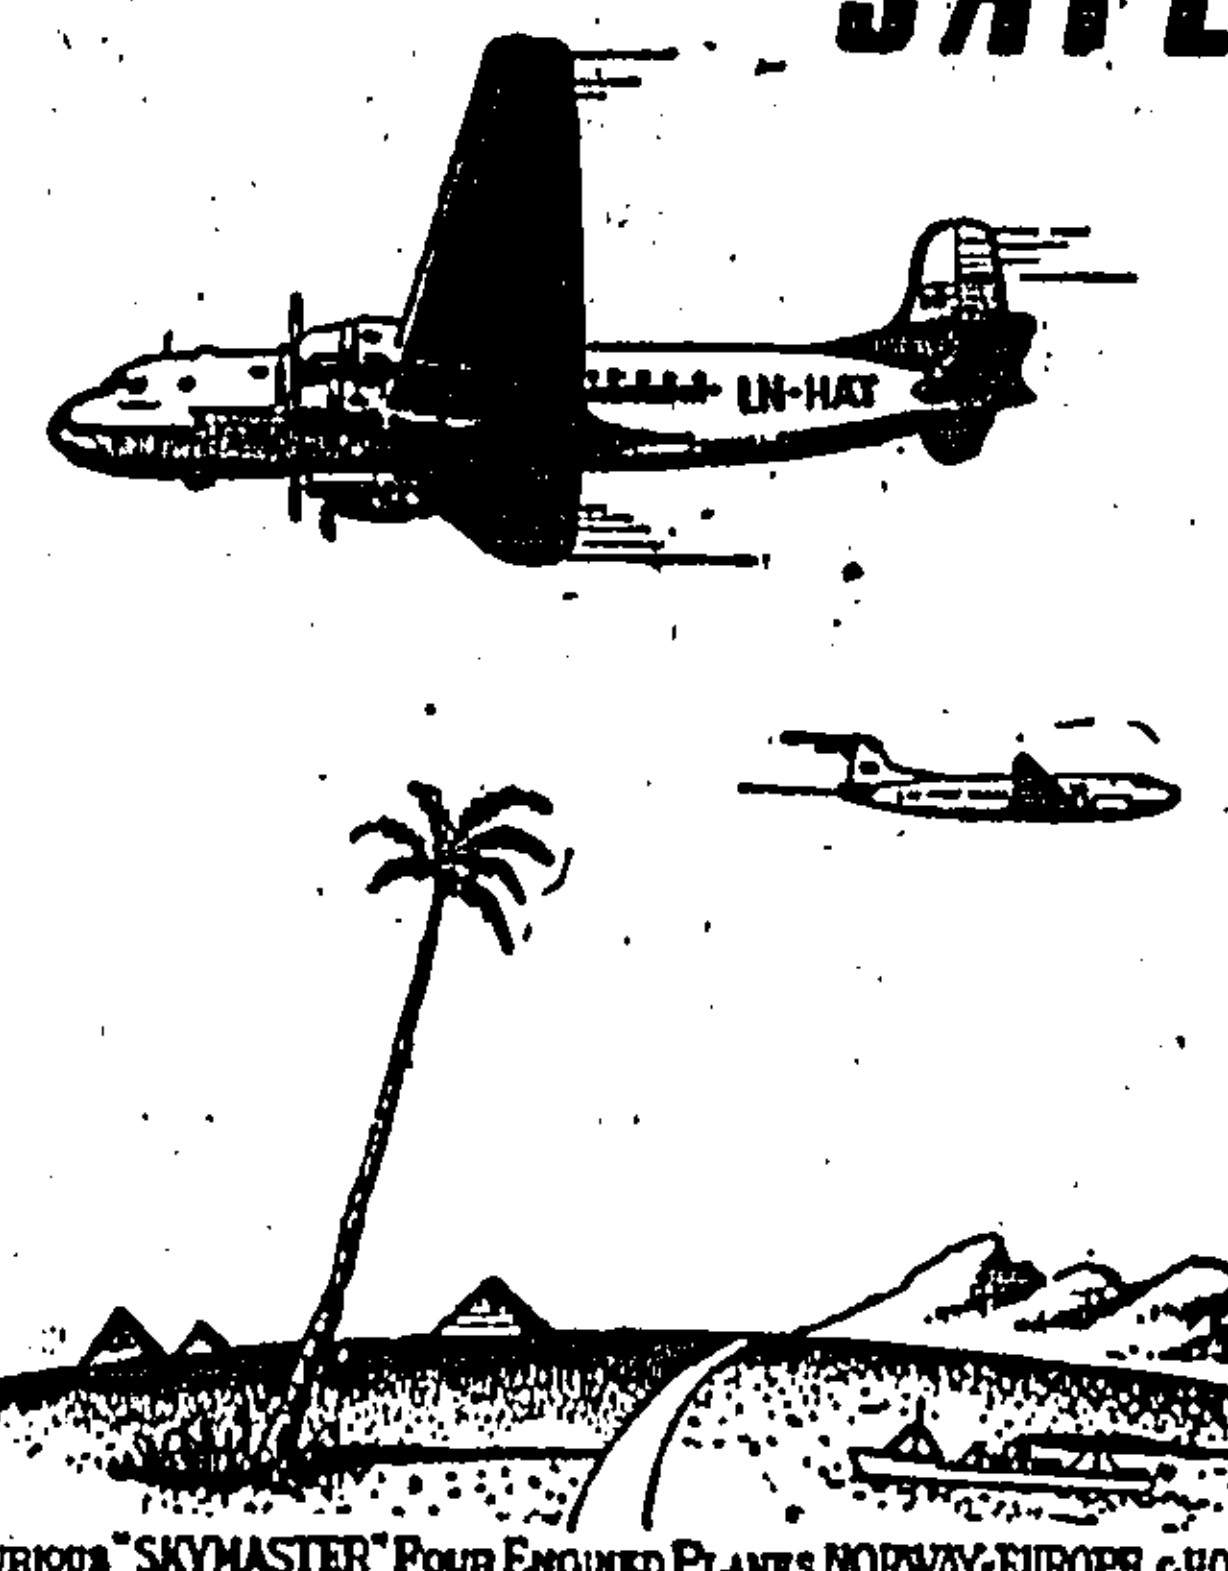

At the airport to meet the royal visitor were the Premier, Mr. Andre Marie, the Foreign Minister and former Premier, M. Robert Schuman, the Defence Minister, H. Rene Mayer, and several other members of the Cabinet and high-ranking French personalities.

As the Shah alighted from the plane, a military band played the Iranian and French national anthems, after which the royal visitor inspected a guard of honour.

Large crowds cheered the Shah as he drove away from the airport.

During his stay in Paris, the Shah will visit M. Vincent Auriol, the President of the French Republic. —Agence France-Presse.

VIRTUAL ULTIMATUM TO WEST AT THE DANUBIAN CONFERENCE

Czech Deportation

London, August 1. F. Hampel, the Czech whose deportation has been ordered by the Home Secretary, will leave Northolt by the 9.30 a.m. plane on Monday. His wife, formerly Miss T. Mitova, whom he married last week, is to follow him by plane on Friday. He said he had to change his plans at the last moment and could not get seats in the plane for both his wife and himself. Mr. Hampel is Secretary of the British Czechoslovakian friendship League and has been liaison officer between British and Czech trade unions. He and his wife have been in West England for about 10 years. The deportation order was made, according to the Home Secretary, after a letter had passed between two Czechs at the League club resulting in "valuable information" getting into the hands of a foreign power.

Palestine Issues

Lake Success, August 1. The Security Council will hold a special session at Britain's request tomorrow to consider the arrest of five Britons in Jerusalem, and also the refugee problem affecting Jewish displaced persons and 300,000 Arabs driven from their homes by the Palestine war. Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British permanent representative, is expected to say the refugee problem is urgent and likely to affect international peace and security. The Israeli authorities will counter-charge Britain with detaining several thousand Jewish refugees in Cyprus.—Reuter.

BARGAINING POINT

Athens, August 1. Mr. Patrick D. Reilly, British Charge d'Affaires, has made representations to the Greek Premier, M. T. Sophoulis, about King Paul's suggestion last week that Britain should give up Cyprus to Greece, in return for British and American bases on Crete. It was authoritatively reported here tonight. The Greek Foreign Minister stressed that the King's suggestion was made during a friendly talk with an American correspondent.—Reuter.

A new Danube Convention, depriving the Western Allies of most of their navigation rights along Europe's greatest waterway, was expected by Western observers to emerge from the 10-nation conference meeting here.

The Western powers, it was believed, would maintain their insistence on their rights acquired under the 1921 Convention after the first "World War" but this was expected to have little practical effect on the new river regime.

When Britain and France stated their claims under this Convention at yesterday's session, M. Andrei Vyshinsky, the Deputy Foreign Minister, asserted that the Convention had lapsed through treaties signed by the Western powers before the war as well as through the clauses in the Balkan peace treaties of 1947. He told the Western powers that the "door was open for them to leave" the conference if they would not accept its majority decisions. Six of the eight riparian countries — through which the Danube passes are members of the Soviet "bloc" and of the other two, Austria is only an observer at the conference. Germany is not represented.

The conference, called by the Big Four, is being attended by Britain, France, Russia, the United States, the Ukraine, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.—Reuter.

Partition Of Ireland

Dublin, August 1. The Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee, who is holidaying in Eire, and Mr. John Costello, the Eireann Prime Minister, are believed to have discussed informally during the week-end the partition of Ireland.

Mr. Attlee is expected to see the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, Sir Basil Brooke, possibly next week and may discuss the partition with him.

There is speculation here about a possible meeting between the three statesmen before Mr. Attlee's return.

Mr. Costello, in a week-end speech, said: "Irish unity, in the interest of world peace, should appeal to Irishmen everywhere." The Northern Ireland Government has strongly denounced any idea of unity with Eire and reaffirmed its loyalty to the British Crown.—Reuter.

DEMILITARISATION OF JERUSALEM

Rhodes, August 1.

Arab and Jewish replies to the proposal to demilitarise Jerusalem were interpreted today at the Headquarters of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine Mediator, as an acceptance of the principle of demilitarisation.

It was pointed out that the "plan of demilitarisation" which the Jewish Provisional Government had rejected earlier, was nothing more than an informally presented draft working paper to provide a technical basis for discussion.

Count Bernadotte, who has cabled the Arab and Jewish replies to the United Nations Headquarters at Lake Success, said today that "I interpret the replies to mean that both parties are inspired by a common desire to avoid further fighting and destruction of Jerusalem."

"It is my intention, therefore, to continue my efforts to achieve agreement on the plan for demilitarisation."

The Count, meanwhile, went to Amman, capital of Transjordan, today on the first stage of a six-day tour of Arab and Jewish centres.

Naval and air patrols along the coast of Palestine and all United Nations observers have been alerted to watch for two landing craft loaded with arms for the Jews, reported to be approaching the country, a United Nations spokesman said.

Police today shot dead a wanted Chinese at Menglimbu, three miles south-west of Ipoh, and seriously wounded and captured another man when the two resisted arrest.

A Chinese bus stand proprietor was murdered at Kelang, 20 miles south of Kuala Lumpur last night after he had accepted an invitation by two Chinese to go into the town with them.

His bullet-ridden body was found within 100 yards of his home by police officers today.

Four other armed Chinese who posed as detectives tried the same trick on a Kelang Chinese labour overseer last night. He refused to leave his home so they fired Sten gun and rifle bullets at the house. When that failed to intimidate him, they unsuccessfully attempted to set fire to the house by using kerosene.

Police 150 yards away who heard the firing thought an attack was being made on the police station. They did not hear the real story until later.—Reuter.

FORD PRICES UP

Detroit, August 1.

The Ford Company has announced another increase in the price of Ford cars—the second in less than two months.

When the company brought out its 1949 model in June, it raised the price by about nine per cent or between US$85 and US$125.—Reuter.

Border Police Clash

Singapore, August 1.

The Straits Times in a Bangkok dispatch reported that Siam border police clashed today with Malayan Communists for the first time.

The dispatch, quoting reports reaching Bangkok from the south, said that one Siamese policeman was killed when 50 Communist insurgents from Malaya retreating into Siam encountered a border patrol at Sadao.

The police have urgently summoned reinforcements to the scene.

The Siam-Malaya border is a wild jungle region. Wanted men frequently slip from one country into the other.—Associated Press.

LARGE SUMS VOTED FOR MARSHALL AID IN EUROPE: BRITAIN GETS SUBSTANTIAL SHARE

Yangtze Flood Sag

Kiukiang, August 2. The flood waters of the Yangtze sagged four to seven inches here and at Hankow, but renewed heavy rains stopped the ebb overnight.

In Kiukiang, the price of rice—barometer of hope in China—registered its first drop in two months, from CN$37,000,000 to CN$32,000,000 per 175 pound bag.

Delayed reports of receding waters in no way were a conclusive indication of a trend. They definitely did subside at these two points, but the drop is small and so far only temporary.

Municipal officials told the Associated Press it would need consistently dry weather during the whole of August to permit the floods to recede from hundreds of square miles of cropland along the Yangtze River valley.

Hundreds of thousands of farmers from the estuary to Hankow and beyond will be unable to regain possession of their thatched homes for at least another month. And still it is by no means certain the waters will recede in time for the planting of the second rice crop of the year.

Officials still are silent on figures of casualties and damage suffered due to the flood which is four weeks old already. They minimised loss of life—which is quite believable—as the gradual raising of the waters permitted the farmers to evacuate their homes in time.—Associated Press.

PHILIPPINE SUGAR CROP

Manila, August 2. Philippine sugar production for 1948-49 was officially estimated at 660,000 short tons.

The amount available for export will be about 510,000 tons, more than double that of the preceding season.—Associated Press.

Russia-US Trade

New York, August 2. Russia is not getting out of the U.S. foreign trade community, the Amtorg Trading Corporation says.

The official Soviet commercial agency here says its operations have been cut in half—and blames U.S. restrictions on exports to Russia—but it plans to continue selling furs, manganese, chrome and potash in the American market, and to continue trying to buy locomotives, dredges, steam shovels and other equipment.—Associated Press.

Rome Bomb

Rome, August 1. A hand grenade tossed into a religious procession at San Martino Di Battaglia near Milan last night injured 20 persons, dispatches said today.

The grenade was thrown from behind a hedge directly against a horse-drawn carriage bearing an image of the Virgin Mary.

Many of those injured were children escorting the Virgin.

Three were reported gravely hurt.—Associated Press.

REFRIGERATION, DRY CARGO, CARGO OIL TANKS

Washington, August 1. The United States' outlay for Marshall Plan aid to Europe is expected to climb above the US-$1,000,000,000 mark this week.

The Economic Cooperation Administrator, Mr. Paul Hoffman, reported that last week's purchase authorisations of US$72,861,232 raised the ECA cash grant total to US$907,883,934.

More than Half

Britain and France together have received more than half the cash in grants authorised under the foreign aid programme since it was approved last April.

Heavy shipments of wheat and wheat flour featured in the new list. Shipments worth about US$36,000,000 accounted for more than half the new commodity measures.

The purchase of US$50,000 worth of rubber by France from Belgium was one unusual transaction approved. France also received ECA approval for the purchase of US$33,750 worth of raw coccoline from Peru.

Iron and steel mill materials worth more than US$3,000,000 were approved for delivery to Britain. They are to be supplied by the United States. Britain will also get US$17,200,000 worth of lumber from Canada and the United States.

Copra From Philippines

France will get US$1,630,000 worth of copra from the Philippines and the French occupation zone in Germany will get American tyres and rubbers worth US$1,370,000.

Other new authorisations include: Austria, US$8,720,375; Denmark, US$323,016; France, US$7,631,042; Greece, US$4,144,108; Anglo-American Zone, US$2,033,000; Netherlands, US$10,432,957; Norway, US$5,418,680; Greece, US$1,800,109; Italy, US$7,747,189; Great Britain, US$20,500,000; China, US$85,000.—United Press.

US Rubber Consumption

Washington, August 2. Consumption of rubber in the U.S. took an upturn in June, the Commerce Department reported.

It rose 95,000 long tons compared with 87,200 tons in May and 85,000 in June of last year. No previous month of this year had shown an increase over the corresponding month of last year.

For the first six months of 1948, new rubber consumption was 547,778 tons, a decline of 4.2 per cent from the first half of last year.

June consumption included 55,012 tons of natural rubber, with late reaching a high of 2,278 tons. Synthetic rubber consumption, at 39,318 tons, was the highest since January.—Associated Press.

Siam Rice Export

Bangkok, August 2. The Ministry of Commerce says Siam will export about 1,500,000 tons of rice this year.

World food experts have estimated that to relieve the general world shortage, Siam would have to reach an export quota of 2,800,000 tons.

The Ministry said an overall export of 10,000,000 tons was requested from the rice producing nations to relieve the shortage in other areas.—Associated Press.

Mexican Embargo

Mexico City, August 2. Mexico has ordered a temporary embargo on cotton exports until national needs are satisfied.

The move, ordered by the Department of National Economy, was taken after complaints from Mexican textile plants that growers are selling abroad rather than on the national market.

Growers, it is reported, are particularly anxious to sell their crop for dollars since devaluation of the peso. They are uncertain as to the eventual dollar-peso rate.

Mexican buyers on the other hand say they cannot afford the prices growers are asking.—Associated Press.

PERFORMANCES HAVE BEEN DISAPPOINTING

London, August 2.

Everyone admits now that the freshly made Olympic Games track is fast—but the Americans are asking what is the matter in the field events.

Six Olympic track championships have been decided.

In the three running races, two Olympic records have been bettered and one tied. But in the three field events, Olympic records have not been touched.

The situation is a burning one in the field events: they hope to make their best showing.

Of the six events run off—aside from the 50 kilometre walk, whose conditions vary from one competition to another—the U.S. has won three and the disappointments all have come in the field events.

T. Winter of Australia won the high jump at 6 feet 6 inches, considered well within the range of the Americans.

1. Nemets of Hungary won the hammer at 183 feet 1 1/2 inches, a distance that Sam Felton of the U.S. has bettered but Felton placed fourth.

Willie Steel of the U.S. won the broad jump at 25 feet 10 inches, well below his capabilities.

On the track, however, Harriett Gaurd won the 100 metre dash for the U.S. in 16 3/10 seconds, tying the Olympic record.

Roy Cochran won the 400 metre hurdles for the U.S. in 51 1/10 seconds, surpassing the existing Olympic record.

Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia won the 5,000 metre run in 29 minutes 59 5/10 seconds, also a new mark.

Track Argument
Before the Games started, the big argument was over the track. The British started making it only two weeks ago when dog racing last suspended in the Wembley Stadium. Cinders, ground red tile and clay were used, and track men shook their heads.

They did not think the result would be good. No one gave a thought to the field events.

The layout in the stadium is entirely unlike any seen in America. The track has a brick red surface, contrasting distinctly with the cream, green infield. At either end of the oval are the jumping pits, and all round them is a surface of the same red type as the running track.

It is this arrangement that has disturbed some of the Americans. American jumping pits are usually set well in from the running track, with the pole vault and broad jump runways at the side of the field parallel to the straight-aways.

Some high jumpers had to touch the running track to get their proper runs, and some broad jumpers crawled over into the running track after their leaps.

Matches between Sweden and Austria, China and Turkey, Korea and Mexico and Italy and America are played on Monday evening.

Kickoff in each case will be at 1730 GMT.

The Korea-Mexico and China-Turkey games are to be between two or less unknown quantities, but both Sweden and Italy should be in the running.

THE OLYMPICS

Czech, Favourite For 5000 Metres, Has Competition

(By Vernon Morgan, Reuter's Sports Editor)

London, August 1.

The eyes of more than 80,000 spectators gathered at Wembley Stadium on Britain's Bank Holiday will turn to the two great Olympic track events tomorrow—the 800 metres and the 5,000 metres.

After his phenomenal performance on Friday in the 10,000 metres, no one expects the Czechoslovak, Emil Zatopek, to be beaten in the 5,000 metres. But he will face much tougher opposition and many think he was very unwise to overstrain himself yesterday by making a great effort in the 10,000 metres final.

The Czech will need every ounce of strength in his muscular frame to withstand the challenges of the Belgian Gaston Reiff, the Dutchman Willie Slijkhuis, the Swedes Nyberg and Albertsson, and the Finns Koskela, Makela and Perala.

The afternoon events begin with the first round of the 300 metres and the giant American Negro sprinter, Harrison Dillard, will attempt to repeat the feat of his coloured colleague, Jesse Owens, who won both the 100 metres and the 200 metres in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin.

Barney Ewell, however, will be out for revenge and Lloyd Labench, the third man in the all-coloured trio of champions in the 100 metres final, may do better over the extra distance.

The 800 metres, always one of the best races, may go to any of about six men, but the coloured American Mal Whitefield, with his easy stride, is probably a slight favourite.

Frenchmen, however, are sold to a man that their little champion, Marcel Hansenne, will win.

American Jumpers
One of the other events to be decided during the afternoon is the pole vault, in which the American jumpers, Morcom, Richards and Smith should take the first three places as they have all bettered the Olympic record of 4.35 metres, established by their compatriot, Earl Meadows, in Berlin.

The Norwegian Kass is probably their most dangerous opponent.

The Americans also feel that they will get the discus gold medal through either Burton, Gordien or Frank, but the Italians have hopes of their man Tosi being victor.

The first Dutch medal seems predicted today to be won during the afternoon by the Dutch mother of two children, Fanny Blankers-Koen. In the 100 metres she is in a class by herself.

Women swimmers will feature at the Empire pool, where the final of the 100 metres freestyle will be the highlight of the day's events.

The 800 metres relay and the 400 metres freestyle heats for men are the other attractive events in the swimming programme.

Football
Football in the evening will provide some attractive matches on London suburban grounds.

Sweden and Austria will probably pack the spacious Tottenham Hotspur ground in North London and an exciting even match is expected.

The other matches are China v. Turkey, Korea v. Mexico and Italy v. the United States.

COMPLETE SELL-OUT

London, August 1.
Sunny weather and thrilling competition have assured the Olympic Games of financial success.

Officials, who gloomily forecast a deficit when programme ticket sales lagged, predicted today that the big show will now pay its way.

A sell out crowd of 33,000 jammed Wembley Stadium yesterday and another sell out is forecast for Monday.

Only a few thousand tickets remain "unsold" for the Stadium events during the rest of the week.

The swimming pool arena is crowded every day, with about 7,000 people. Even the showers, like wrestling, boxing and basketball, are beginning to attract sizeable crowds after a slow start.

More warm weather is forecast for Monday. But the weather is not expected to be a factor in the results.

Wrestling
According to figures not officially revised, 18 free style wrestlers have been eliminated from the Olympic tournament.

These included: M. Abdel el Ware, Egypt; A. Lamont, Belgium; A. Lightfoot, D. Adonis, Lebanon; and A. Palesa, Iran.

Unofficial Standings

London, August 1.

Unofficial team standings in the 1948 Olympic games at the end of 12 events were:

The United States	104
France	38
Sweden	25
Australia	15
Hungary	12
Yugoslavia	12
Great Britain	11
Italy	11
Czechoslovakia	10
Denmark	7
Finland	7
Norway	7
Belgium	5
Ceylon	5
Switzerland	5
Netherlands	4
Panama	4
Mexico	3
Poland	3
Canada	3

There is no official championship, but the country which scores the greatest number of points on the basis of 10 for the first place, five for second, four for third, three for fourth, two for fifth and one for sixth is generally regarded as the champion.

However, there were some events in which only the first four places were scored, because the final rounds were held to determine the fifth and sixth places.—United Press.

Water Polo
Two Olympic water polo matches were played at Wembley Pool tonight by order of the International Swimming Federation following protests.

In the replays, Hungary beat Egypt by five goals to two and Yugoslavia and Italy drew at four goals each.

The result of the Hungary-Egypt match means that Great Britain has been eliminated on a goal average.

There were no spectators present at the matches.

Yachting
Lord Burghley, Chairman of the Olympic Games Organising Committee, early today thrust an aluminium torch into the Olympic flame at the Empire Stadium, Wembley, and handed it to the first of 108 British runners who will relay it to Torquay, south coast resort, for the start of the yachting contests.

Less than 100 spectators watched the first runner emerge from the giant Stadium to bear the flame on the first lap of its 214 miles journey through south-western England to Torquay.

The runners were carrying the flame all through today and tonight to get it to Torre Abbey, overlooking Torquay Harbour, by tomorrow morning.

A Great Fight
Korea certainly put up a great fight. Matching score by score, they led at one stage in the opening half 6-5. Throughout this period, one or two points separated the teams. Half-time was 22-21 in Philippines' favour and the course of the game quite unpredictable.

Two early field goals in the second half heartened the Philippines but back came the Koreans with a field goal and two fouls to bring the scores again to within one point. And so it continued—a fast sporting struggle—with the Philippines tenaciously maintaining their slender advantage at the end, but both teams received loud applause from the largest crowd so far. They well deserved it.

Campes played brilliantly for the Philippines, scoring five field goals and two fouls, a total of 12 points. F. Fajardo worked splendidly and also scored 12 points.

The outstanding players in the losing team were Kim, with eight points, and Chang, with six points.

Promoted
Prague, August 1.
General Ludwik Svododa, Czechoslovakia Minister of Defence, today promoted Emil Zatopek, Czech Army officer who set a new Olympic record in winning the 5,000 metre run at London.

The Czech Army has three grades of Lieutenant and Zatopek was advanced from the second grade to the highest grade.

Wrestling
According to figures not officially revised, 18 free style wrestlers have been eliminated from the Olympic tournament.

These included: M. Abdel el Ware, Egypt; A. Lamont, Belgium; A. Lightfoot, D. Adonis, Lebanon; and A. Palesa, Iran.

Divar Hunt
The United States Olympic diving hope, Miller, Anderson, crashed from the high platform into the water of the Empire Pool, Wembley, today.

Miller, who was running up the spring board diving on Saturday, is suffering from confusion of the lungs and is scratched from the men's high diving championship.

Miller was about to do a back somersault when he lost his footing and fell into the water.

American Athletes Cocky

London, August 1.

American athletes today served notice on the rest of the world, particularly France and Italy, that it will take new Olympic records to keep the United States from winning at least three more gold medals when the track and field events resume on Monday in the Olympic Stadium.

At Uxbridge training centre where the Americans are camped, tall, quiet Mal Whitfield of Ohio State jogged around his force of backstroke swimmers for the final of the 800-metre run, a big event in Monday's programme.

He heard Marcel Hansenne, France's great middle distance runner, predict 1.49 clocking for himself. He present record is 1.40.8.

"Of course, anybody can say that," said Whitfield. "I will do it to do at least that to win it. I will be good enough."

The range of American, who is a possibility for the 300-metre and 800-metre double, jogged home behind Hansenne on Saturday in the fastest of three 800-metre heats in 1:50.0.

"I can't see Morcom, Richards or Smith letting anyone beat them," said coach Tom Jones.

And all those Finn and Swedes who qualified have to go to win a vault higher than out last, they will mean a new record because our men have all been over it before. But before we get to Morcom, Richards or Smith letting anyone beat them."

The qualifiers all of whom cleared 13 feet 3 3/4 inches include three Americans, two Puerto Ricans, two Swedes, two Finns, one Norwegian and one Frenchman.—United Press.

Of Londoners themselves, says, "the thing that impresses me most is the easy and peaceful way in which everybody takes life—so different from Singapore where everyone is in a hurry."

But he will be glad to get back to Singapore and his three children. It is a great honour to be the first man to be chosen to represent Singapore in the games, but I am a bit lonely and I shall be glad to get back," he said.

is an experience I would not have missed for anything.

Received By Cardinal
More than 1,000 Olympic athletes from 59 nations, accompanied by the Presidents of the National Olympic Committees, were received today by James Cardinal Griffin, Archbishop of Westminster.

A reception was held at the Cardinal's residence, which is adjacent to Westminster Cathedral.

Athletes and Ambassadors or Ministers from nations represented at the Games gathered under the head of the Roman Catholic Church in Britain for an hour and a half. Smiling all the while, the Archbishop had a kind word for everyone.

Tea was served afterwards, followed by Vesper service in the Cathedral.

Basketball
Harrington, August 1.
Twenty-three Olympic basketball teams today totted up their standings and rested before heading tomorrow into the third day of the most intensive and exhaustive tests in basketball history.

For the next week, qualifying games will continue and each contestant must play every other team in its group at least once.

The two top teams in each group will move into the final round to battle for the top eight places. The third and fourth teams in each group will compete in the ninth to 16th place and the remainder will fight it out for the remaining seven places.

The United States Olympic diving hope, Miller, Anderson, crashed from the high platform into the water of the Empire Pool, Wembley, today.

Miller, who was running up the spring board diving on Saturday, is suffering from confusion of the lungs and is scratched from the men's high diving championship.
